FRIDAY EVENING, OCTOBER 12

THE SUN'S DISTANCE. - It is announced that the telegraphic observations of the last transit of Venus, of 1874, made by British parties in Egypt, Honolulu, New Zealand, Rodriguez and Kerguelen, have been reduced, with a result of 8.76 seconds of air, for the solar paral lax. This gives about 93,300,000 miles for the mean distance of the earth from the sun. The probable error is stated to be 0,013 seconds. which is about 140,000 miles; so that, in round numbers, the British observations, so far as to duced, give the distance as somewhere between 93,150,000 and 93,450,000 miles. The only other result thus far published is a tentative one made by M. Puiseux, of the French observations, giving some 92,050,000 miles. Those of the American observers, now being reduced any ever before offered for sale in this market, manufactured from the best material, and in the most durable and stylish manner, comprising a great variety of new and handsome styles.

The sale of the sale in this market, at Washington, are not yet limshed, and outsiders can only guess as to what the result will be. An inquiry addressed there about a week ago has not yet been answered. At present it does not seem probable that a collation of all the charged in the c the observations made by the astronomers of different countries will give a result that can be depended upon to within much less than 500,-000 miles; and if this should be so, then the time and money spent upon the work will have been comparatively wasted. - Chicago Tribune.

POETICAL OLD BACHELORS, -- Corneitle, Ra cine and Boileau were all poetical old bachelors. Gray was, in every sense, real and poetical, a cold, fastidiens old bachelor, at one; shy and proud, sensitive and selfish. In looking through his memoirs, letters and poems, we cannot find one indication that he was ever under the influence of woman. He loved his mother, and was dutiful to two tiresome old aunts who thought poetry one of the seven deadly sins. His learning was entombed with him. His genius survives in his clegy and odes. What became of his heart we know not. He might well moral ize on his bachelorship, and call himself a "soli tary fly." Collins was never a lever, and never married. He is reported to have been enes in love, and as the lady was one day older than himself, he used to say, justingly, that "he came into the world a day after the fair." He wrote an ode on the Passions, in which, after dwelling on hope, fear, despair and pity, he dismisses love with a couple of lines. Such supposed herself to be the object of his serious pursuit an opportunity of accepting or rejecting him. He died unmarried.

WHAT THEY THINK OF DEATH IN DEAD wood. - As I was resting in a camp on the outskirts of Deadwood, a jolly faced man came along and asked for a job. He was told that every man was working for himself, and making mighty poor wages at that, when he replied: -"Gentlemen, I haven't had one good meal in three weeks; I haven't been able to get a day's work; I'm dead broke, and the curtain is going to ring down on this tragedy right here and right now!"

He stepped around the fire, pulled a revol ver from a miner's belt, and then, retreating back a pace or two, he said :

"Gentlemen, I'm going! I've starved around the Black Hills for three months, and if there is any worse place than this I'm envious to see it! Excuse me for wasting ammunition, but here I go-crack!"

He put the muzzle of the revolver to his fore-head and never kicked after the report. No man rose up to restrain him. After a few mi nutes the owner of the revolver walked over and procured it, and as he wiped a spot of blood off the barrel he growled out :--"Blast his eyes! Why didn't he jump over some cliff, or go out and let the Indians tickle him to death .- Deadwood Letter.

A STORY OF DICKERS APPROPRIATED, -OR one of Captain Morgan's voyages from Ameri ca to England he had under his care a very at tractive young lady, who speedily distinguished herself by reducing five young gentlemen to the verge of distraction. She was quite ready to marry one, but what could she do with five? In the embarra-sment of her riches she sought the Captain, who, after a few moments' thought, said: "It's a fine, calm day; suppose, by accident, you should fall overboard; I'll have a boat lowered ready to pick you up, and you can take the man who loves you well enough to jamp after you. This nevel proposition met the young lady's views, and the programme was accordingly carried out, with the trifling exception that four of the young men took the plunge, and, being picked up by the boat, presented themselves a dripping quartet upon the ship's deek. The object of their undampened arder, no less wet than themselves, fled to her state room and sent for her adviser, the Captain. "Now, Captain," cried she in despair, "what am I to do?" "Ah, my dear," replied the Captain, "if you want a a sensible husband take the dry one," which she did. - Scribner's Monthly. INDIAN RELICS .- Capt. John N. C. Stockton recently dug up on his farm, "The Brook," about five miles from Charlottesville, an Indian arrow and a hatchet, both of stone. He has frequently ploughed up the bones of Indians and a large quantity of teeth, which he says were the finest and most perfect he had ever seen. On this farm was an Indian burial place with mounds. Mr. Jefferson opened one of these mounds and found it filled with skeletons of the Indian race, and in his "Notes on Virginia" states that the place was frequently visited by Indians from the West who went direct to these mounds where the bodies of their ancestled in this vicinity .- Charlottesville Chronicle. 10 How it is DONE .- The first object in life with the American people is to "get rich;" the second, how to regain good health. The first can be obtained by energy, honesty and saving; the second (good health) by using Orders promptly attended to and families | GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER.
